Let's Start!

Speak up! Give your opinion!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information involving apologies, thanks, suggestions, and invitations in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs and work.
- I can introduce an opinion in a meeting.
- I can make and respond to requests.

Ask your partner:

- Think of a time when you gave your opinion. What was it about?
- Was it difficult to give your opinion? Why or why not?

Let's Explore!

Is Mr. Lockerty a good chairperson of the meeting? Let's listen!

* You can also say chairman, chairwoman, or just chair.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Mr. Lockerty: Thank you for your presentation, Susan. Does anyone have feedback for Ms. Major?
- Mr. Warren: Susan, could you give us more detail about the recruitment process? Could you tell us how many people you plan to hire?
- Ms. Major: Well, we have 15 new positions to fill, so ...
- Ms. Truman: Pardon me for interrupting. Could I make a comment?
- Ms. Major: Certainly.
- Mr. Lockerty: You have the floor.
- Ms. Truman: I think 15 people is too many. Ten is enough.
- Mr. Lockerty: Is there any discussion on this point? If not, can we vote?
- Ms. Major: I must say I disagree. We have a lot of work to do on this project.
- Mr. Warren: Yes, but we need to monitor our budget. I agree with Carol.

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Getting Involved in a Meeting

When you are at a meeting, it is important to speak at the correct time and to give your opinion in an acceptable way. You can use the Simple Present tense to express your ideas and opinions.

Sometimes the chairperson of a meeting invites people to give their opinion. You use the Simple Present tense to introduce people in a meeting and organize the items in the agenda.

If you need to interrupt a person, use a polite expression. You use modals like can or could to interrupt someone politely.

If you agree with someone, use their name.

If you disagree with someone, use a polite expression.

Asking for Comments	Interrupting a Person	Agreeing and Disagreeing	Asking for Information
Does anyone have feedback? Is there any discussion on this point? Please speak up.	Pardon me for interrupting. Could I make a comment? Could I have the floor, please?	I agree with Helen. That's a good idea. I must say I disagree. Yes, but we need to ...	Could you give us more detail about ... ? Could you tell us ... ?

Examples:

- Thank you for your presentation. Does anyone have feedback for Ms. Major?
- Is there any discussion on this point? If not, can we vote?
